

Labor Director Admits Conduct Not Impartial

P. G. Phillips Tells House Committee While He Was Attorney He Also Relayed Advice

Defends Reds

Tells Group Communists Are Entitled to Protection Under Act

Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—A regional director of the National Labor Relations Board conceded today that his own conduct at a trial examiner's hearing showed a lack of proper separation of the board's judicial and prosecuting functions in the Cincinnati Milling Machine Company case.

Appearing before the House committee investigating the labor board, Philip G. Phillips, regional director at Cincinnati, saw NLRB records introduced which showed that while he was acting as attorney at the trial examiner, Harlowe Hurley, instructions from the board.

Hurley upheld Phillips' contention on the point covered by the instructions, the evidence brought out, and the case subsequently was dropped because of Phillips' conduct at the hearing.

Halleck's Comment

Rep. Halleck (R., Ind.) told the witness that "apparently this case was one of the cases where you were acting as a prosecutor but at the same time you as regional director were contacting the board in Washington and making suggestions about what the actions of the trial examiner should be."

"Do you think," Halleck inquired, "that indicated a fair divorce of the prosecuting functions from the judicial?"

"No, I don't think it would," Phillips replied.

"Was anything you did in relation to this case as far as the trial examiner was concerned an attempt to actually control (Hurley's) judgment?" asked Rep. Halleck.

"No, I couldn't control his judgment," Phillips replied.

Sought to Advise

The witness, continuing his replies to Halleck, said that he sought to advise Hurley about decisions that had been made in similar cases where communism was concerned and about "what his superiors in Washington thought."

"As a lawyer," Chairman Smith (D., Va.) put in, "you wouldn't think of going to the Supreme Court and discussing a case before the decision would you?"

"Of course not," the witness replied.

"Wasn't it a question of you going to the court through the back door or the front door?"

"He (Hurley) didn't know," Phillips said. "He needed instructions."

Phillips told the committee that communists are entitled to the same protection under the Wagner act as are members of other political parties, so long as they are not engaged in subversive activities.

"There's nothing in the act that says a communist is not entitled to its protection," Phillips declared. He spoke in reply to a question by Chairman Smith (D., Va.) of the committee investigating the labor board and the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

Smith had asked whether the board took the position that employers are compelled to employ communists.

"It is pretty generally known, or pretty generally believed throughout the country," Smith said by way of introducing the question, "that the communist party is a party whose principle is chiefly to foment trouble and to promote revolution and bring about the some form of government that exists in Russia."

When Phillips started to reply Rep. Murdock (D., Utah) stopped him to inquire whether the witness could speak authoritatively for the board. Phillips said he could not.

"Then speak for yourself," Smith instructed.

The witness, asserting that the act afforded the same protection to communists as to persons of other political beliefs, said he did not believe that an employer would have to keep in his employ anyone who advocated violence.

Churchill States Rough, Violent Times Lie Ahead

London, Dec. 19 (AP)—With fierce acceleration of the war at sea and in the air, Britons have been warned by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, that "rough and violent times lie ahead."

The full scope of aerial and naval combat—as against the comparative quiet on the western front—was brought home with the disclosure that the greatest air battle of the war was fought yesterday over the German coast and Churchill's declaration that "a considerable proportion" of Germany's cruiser strength was put out of action last week.

Great Britain claimed these successes against the German navy within the past week:

Scuttled after entrapment by British cruisers—the 10,000-ton pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

Sunk in the North Sea—one submarine and one cruiser of the 6,000-ton Koeln class (the Koeln, Karlsruhe, or Koenigsberg).

Crippled by torpedoes in the North Sea—the 10,000-ton cruiser Leipzig, or her sister ship, the Admiral Hipper.

The air ministry announced 12 of about 24 German fighting planes were shot down and seven British bombers "unaccounted for" after hot battle over Helgoland Light, German North Sea naval base.

The British airmen had gone there looking for German warships at sea, but found only a strong air force in action.

(German declared 34 of 52 attacking British planes were shot down.)

Attack on Fishing Boats

Also reported was a mass German air attack on 24 fishing boats off the east coast, six of which were sunk.

The British public, long impatient for action, also learned from Churchill last night in a hastily-prepared broadcast that the first Canadian expeditionary force had landed for a period of intensive training on British soil before going to the western front.

The first lord of the admiralty disclosed the Canadian troops had been escorted across the Atlantic by "our main battle fleet" by way of illustrating that British maritime communications were uninterrupted—"I will not say unimpeded"—by the war at sea.

His broadcast dealt primarily with entrapment of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee by her subsequent scuttling at Montevideo. He cited the battleship's alternatives of internment, or "coming out to fight and going down in battle... which would have been honorable for her."

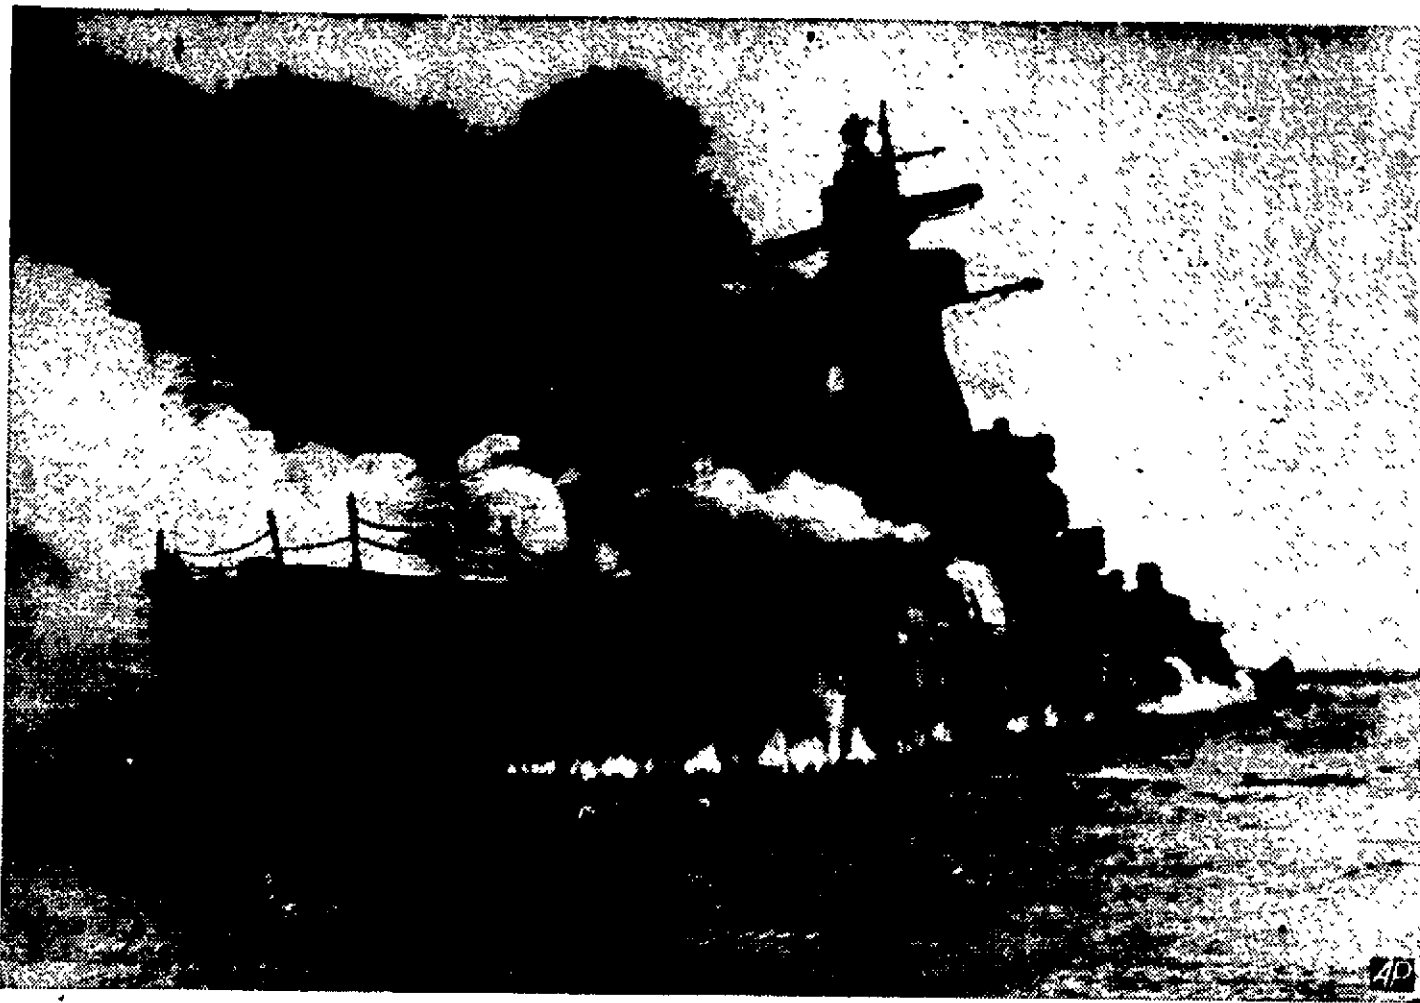

However, he added:

"She discovered a third alternative. She came out not to fight, but to sink herself in a fairway of a neutral state from which she had received such shelter and succor as international law prescribes."

Turning to the struggle for control of the North Sea, the first lord said British submarines had had "the best week I can remember in this, or the last war."

Then he launched into the exploits of the submarines Salmon and Ursula, credited with putting

Postmaster General Says Folks Should Affix 3-Centers to Cards: It's Tonier

Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley has introduced the social issue into the Christmas card scene. In fact, he's set class against class—the folks to make this the most successful event of its kind and have invited parents to accompany their children and join in the fun," said Chairman Haley as he inspected the gifts stored at the Legion's Christmas headquarters, 82 Canal street.

Mrs. Bert Rode, president of the Auxiliary, has also been active in planning the party which will be held with the co-operation of Wallace Struvel, principal of the high school.

In addition to the role for the children, the Legion is working with Chairman William E. Graham who is directing the Ellenville Community Christmas Fund which will furnish baskets of food, toys and clothing to about 70 needy families.

Engelberg Murder Suspect Is Detained By Toronto Police

Pugilist Ernie Haas, 28, Is Said to Have Given Confession; Woman Led to Capture

New York, Dec. 19 (AP)—John J. Ryan, assistant chief police inspector announced today that Ernie Haas, 28, a pugilist, had been arrested in Toronto, Canada on a charge of killing Dr. Walter Engelberg, secretary of the German consulate here.

Ryan said Haas acknowledged he beat Engelberg to death in his Brooklyn home on December 5. Haas' statement, Ryan said, was made to Captain Frank Bais, Brooklyn detective.

A woman, Ryan said, unwittingly led to Haas' arrest.

The woman went to a Brooklyn store to buy an electric train and other toys. While she was being waited on she talked with a sales girl about the Engelberg case and mentioned Haas' name and the fact that she was going to Toronto.

Notifies Management

The sales girl secretly notified the store management. Police were called and the woman was trailed.

Dr. Engelberg's body was found, twenty-four hours after the slaying, by another consulate employee who went to the Brooklyn house to see why Dr. Engelberg had not reported for work on two successive days.

The employee, Fred Doell, found the back door open. Upstairs, he came upon Dr. Engelberg's body, garbed in a white night gown, stretched on a bed. The victim's hands were folded; his head had been bashed in.

Numerous bloody fingerprints, a pair of size 11 house slippers and a large dressing gown were found.

Neighbors of Dr. Engelberg, who was a German university graduate and a veteran in the consular service, told the police he had been in the habit of entertaining men at the house.

Hoover Withdraws

First reports the house might have been used for espionage activities brought J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to New York but he quickly withdrew the case, apparently satisfied the reports were baseless.

The German government shortly

Local Brigade Goes to Help but Can't Find House; Hole Burned in Roof

Kingston fire department received its second call from the town of Rosendale on Monday afternoon and Excelsior Hose Company responded to the call.

Arrival at Creek Locks the firemen were unable to locate any fire but later it was learned the fire had been in the house of Mrs. Erna Fischer at the lower end of the village. The firemen had been unable to locate it because the Fischer place is located off the main street and down a lane.

Deputy Sheriff Arthur Brown also was notified and went to the scene. The fire was extinguished by neighbors who formed a bucket brigade. The fire started in the attic around a defective chimney and burned a hole in the roof before it was out. Discovered about

Mrs. Kipling Dies In Great Britain

Widow of Author in 74th Year; Was Native of Brattleboro, Vt.

London, Dec. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Rudyard Kipling, widow of the author and poet, died at her home today in Sussex.

The former Caroline Starr Balestier, born in Brattleboro, Vt., was the daughter of H. Wolcott Balestier of New York.

She and Kipling were married in 1892 in London, but returned to Vermont for a honeymoon and remained four years while Kipling wrote some of his most famous works.

Mrs. Kipling, who had been ill for an extended time, would have been 74 December 31.

The American-born woman met the writer in 1890, when he was collaborating with her brother, Wolcott Balestier, on "The Nau-lakha." They were married two years later, the year "Barrack Room Ballads" was published.

They had three children, two daughters and a son, Lieut. John Kipling, who was killed in the World War.

News of Mrs. Kipling's death was telegraphed to friends in London by a daughter, Mrs. George Bambridge, the only surviving member of the family. A second daughter, Josephine, died at the age of six.

Mrs. Kipling died at the Bate-man's, Burwash, home where her husband spent the last years of his life.

She twice had been a patient at Middlesex Hospital, where she had kept a vigil at the death bed of her husband.

During his American stay, Kipling wrote "Captains Courageous," "The Jungle Books," and some of the poems in "The Seven Seas." He grew tired of the attention given him as a literary celebrity and left for his native England, neighbors of the couple recalled.

Kipling died January 18, 1936, at the age of 70.

Finnish Soldiers Drop Red Planes In Helsinki Raid

Naval Officials Say Spee's Fate Deliberate Plot

Montevideo, Dec. 19 (AP)—The Uruguayan government today took a step toward internment of the German supply ship Tacoma, which carried oil supplies intended for the ill-fated battleship Admiral Graf Spee before a battle with three British cruisers sent her to her doom.

Government vessels escorted the Tacoma from an outer harbor anchorage into the inner basin where she must pass between two narrow breakwaters, and under the guns of a Uruguayan warship to reach the sea.

Officials said detention of the vessel was not final internment for duration of the war, but was "a step in that direction."

The Tacoma's captain is under technical arrest for violating a rule against movement of merchant ships when the Graf Spee sailed out to be scuttled.

A great plume of black smoke continued to rise from the burning hulk of the Nazi battleship. A naval inspector said she probably would continue to burn for 48 hours more.

Montevideo, Dec. 19 (AP)—Naval sources intimated today the Admiral Graf Spee's encounter with three British warships in the South Atlantic was no accident, but really a trap that had British-sold fuel oil as the bait.

These sources said a German freighter attempted to buy oil from a British concern at an undisclosed Brazilian port 10 days before the engagement of last Wednesday. At first it was refused, but later was supplied on instructions from headquarters.

Capt. Hans Langsdorff, commander of the German pocket battleship said he was cruising off the coast of Brazil in search of a rendezvous with the supply ship Tacoma when he sighted the British cruiser Exeter.

Turning southward, he found himself in the presence of two more British cruisers, the Ajax and Achilles. Lack of fuel forced him to fight at a disadvantage, the German commander told port authorities, and he eventually ran for cover in Montevideo, only to take his shell-battered ship out of port Sunday night and sink it with his own hands.

Claims Enough Fuel

Some sources said the Admiral Graf Spee may actually have made a refueling contact before the battle, for in Buenos Aires last night Langsdorff jeovially commented that he had possessed enough fuel to reach the coast of Spain if need be. He declined to specify the amount, however, and observers who saw the ship enter Montevideo said its position in the water confirmed his first story of scanty fuel.

That the British counted on locating the raider in the South Atlantic was indicated by the concentration of warships there.

In mid-November, the cruisers Cumberland, Exeter and Ajax arrived in Buenos Aires in the space of two days. These three are the entire normal cruiser strength of the British South Atlantic division, and ordinarily would be scattered.

The Achilles, which had been operating in the Pacific, took on supplies and fuel here December 9, only four days before the battle.

Knowledge that a German merchant ship such as the Tacoma had taken on an oil cargo and was dodging about in these waters would be a good clue for the British hunters. They well might have supplied oil in the same

German Bombers Attack Trawlers and Four Lives Are Lost; Battle Claims Disputed

Aid Is Promised

Allied Supreme War Unit in Paris Agrees Upon Help for Finland

(By The Associated Press)

A Russian air raid on Helsinki, German aerial attacks on British trawlers and accounts of the Helgoland air battle today stressed the importance of aircraft in Europe's two wars.

At least two Soviet bombers and possibly two others were downed by anti-aircraft fire during the Helsinki raid in which eleven bombs were dropped harmlessly near a suburb of the Finnish capital.

One British trawler was sunk and four others attacked by German air raiders at sea. Four lives were lost in the encounter.

The extent and outcome of the air battle off Helsinki yesterday were disputed in British and German accounts.

Germany increased from 44 to 52 the number of British planes reported engaged and from 34 to 36 the aircraft Britain was said to have lost.

Britain declared she lost only seven planes and asserted that 12 of 24 defending German planes had been downed.

The official German news agency called it the greatest aerial battle in history.

Moral and material aid for Finland was reported to have been agreed upon at a meeting of the Allied Supreme War Council in Paris.

Planes Driven Off

Helsinki, Dec. 19 (AP)—Soviet Russian-bombing planes were driven off by anti-aircraft fire this morning when they raided Helsinki in a renewal of the aerial offensive against Finland.

Apparently no bombs were dropped. At least no detonations could be heard, in the heart of the city, above the blasting of the anti-aircraft batteries.

(A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch said four of 18 planes succeeded in reaching the capital and bombed the outskirts.)

Sirens sounded the alarm at 11:05 a. m. (3:30 a. m. EST). There was no sign of panic as the war-hardened populace streamed to shelters. The alarm was lifted shortly at 12:15 p. m.

It was variously reported that from four to seven planes took part in the raid.

Perfect flying weather—a break in the overcast skies that had protected Helsinki since the first three days of the war—aided the attackers.

A parachute was sighted as the raiders were pulsed but whether it carried a rifle from a stricken ship or a bundle of propaganda leaflets could not be discerned.

A red army bombing squadron flew over Viipuri, Finland's second city, on the Karelian Isthmus, yesterday. One plane was shot down. The city was not damaged.

On land, the Finnish high command reported the invaders were turned back on the east central front and in the Karelian area.

(Stockholm newspapers said Finnish forces routed 17,000 troops on the shore near Lake Kiantajarvi, east of Suomussalmi, and about 15 miles inland from Finland's western frontier. At the Petsamo arctic front, dispatches from Gergen, Norway, said 300 Russians were lured into a trap set by the Finns.)

Warnings Sounded

Eleven planes were reported sighted near Lappeenranta, 33 miles northwest of Viipuri, but no bombs were dropped. Two air raid warnings were sounded at Porvoo, east of here, and at Kerava, to the north. Military authorities believed Helsinki was the objective.

Destruction of 36 tanks during the day was reported in last night's Finnish communique, which said an attack was pushed back on a 12-mile front on the Karelian sector between Muolajarvi and Valkjärvi.

"At Taipale Lake the enemy twice tried to concentrate in force for an attack, but were dispersed by artillery fire," the communique said, adding that five tanks were destroyed.

The Russian army communique at Leningrad said Soviet troops occupied the town of Pitkärpää, about 53 miles south of Petsamo. Intensive artillery action was reported on the Karelian Isthmus. It reported a number of warships of the Baltic fleet shelled coastal batteries of the Bjorko district, Gulf of Finland seaport.

The only enemy warships sighted during the day were destroyers in the Gulf of Finland.

(The master of the German ship Finna, reported on his arrival at the Swedish port of Frederiksvärk, believed a submarine, believed to have been Russian, fired 35

Hailed by British for Daring Sea Raid

The tiny British submarine Ursula, shown above, was credited by the British admiralty with a daring raid which took her to the mouth of the Elbe river in Germany and resulted in sinking a German cruiser of the Koeln class. The British also asserted this was the submarine which sighted the Bremen on its way from Murmansk to its home port of Bremerhaven, and let the liner proceed unmolested. A German submarine was sunk by this same British boat, it was claimed.

West Side Group Selects Its Name

"West of the Hudson, Inc." was the official name adopted on Friday at the third meeting of the organization representing the municipalities on the west shore of the Hudson river held at the Southampton Hotel in Catskill. It was also decided to hold the fourth meeting on Friday afternoon, January 12, at 12:30 o'clock, in the Hotel Lenape in Liberty.

Ways and means of raising necessary funds to carry on the work of the new organization were discussed and it was decided to raise $100 in each of the nine counties represented in the organization. Schoharie and Albany have thus far completed their selections of directors, and Ulster, Rockland, Sullivan and Delaware will make their report as to who will represent them within the next few days, with Otsego the only county in the original setup not thus far fully cooperating, but this is understood to be due to the holiday season.

Albany county's directors are Townsend Brown, manager of Albany convention and tourist bureau; Bernard V. Fitzpatrick, secretary to Mayor Thatcher, of Albany; and Reynolds Holding of Wellington Hotel, Albany.

Greene county selected Edward O'Connell, Cairo, and E. T. McManus, Coxsackie. Schoharie has Lewis J. Lipe, chairman, Sharon Springs; Charles Dancy, Schoharie; Clinton Barnard, Cobleskill.

Orange county, as previously noted, selected Edward F. Dillon, Newburgh Chamber of Commerce; Edward M. Mitchell, of Middletown and Mayor Phillips of Port Jervis.

Bergan to Hear Two Extra Cases; Jurors Excused

All jury trials have been concluded at the present term of court although Justice Bergan will hear two additional cases without a jury. Jurors were excused Monday afternoon following the report of the grand jury.

An action for property damage in the sum of $800 brought by John J. Doherty against Roemer Brothers Trucking Company was settled. The accident happened at Marlborough, A. W. Lent appeared for the plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook for the defendant.

Settlement was also made in Nos. 193 and 194, actions arising out of an alleged assault. Ingrid Ghedin brought an action for assault and John R. Ghedin brought an action for loss of services of his wife as a result of the alleged assault. The defendant in both actions was Claude J. Hepworth. Michael Nardone appeared for the plaintiff and Rusk & Rusk for the defendant.

An action for personal injuries and damage to her car was brought by Evelyn B. Bongartz against Kurt Woy. The action was tried before the court without a jury. Plaintiff, a cosmetic sales-lady, was proceeding from old 9-W to new 9-W at Highland on September 24, last, on her way to Kingston when she stopped at the junction for the stop sign. While there her car was struck from the rear by the defendant's car which had failed to stop. Her Chevrolet was damaged. The Olds of Woy damaged the rear of her car to the amount of $55.45 and Miss Bongartz suffered injury to her neck, making it necessary to spend $5 for doctor's visits. She also sought damages for her injuries. Andrew J. Cook appeared for the plaintiff and there was no defense. Finkelstein & Vulcan were attorneys of record for the defendant but failed to appear.

Justice Bergan directed a verdict of $100 for her injuries, $6 for doctor's bills and $55.45 for damages to the car, which were testified to by Burton Davis of the Chevrolet service. Costs were also allowed.

His wife, Susana, later was informed by the war department that he was missing. In 1927, believing her husband dead, she married Joseph Radics, of Bethlehem.

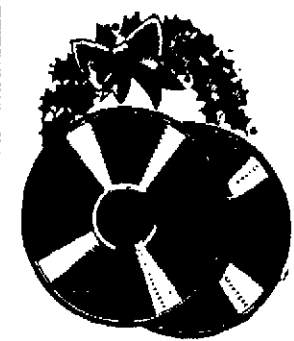

Last year Mrs. Haller learned her first husband was a patient in a veterans' hospital at Sunmount, N. Y.

She filed a petition for annulment of her second marriage. The petition was granted yesterday by Judge E. P. McCluskey.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 19, 1939.

Delegates to the Congress of Industry in New York City recently saw a display of curious things which might have been Merlin himself jealous. Mostly they had been developed from such raw materials as "coal-tar and salt, camphor and soy beans, safety glass and plastics, the casein of milk and the sands of the sea," according to the news story about the show.

The products were evening gowns, tailored suits, transparent raincoats and handbags, shoes and other items of a modern wardrobe. There were also dressing table accessories of lucite, pyralin and plastics made from cotton, formaldehyde, sour milk and carbolic acid. There were lovely stockings of a fabric that looks like chiffon and out-wears the more familiar materials, but is made of coal, water and air correctly treated in the laboratory.

It doesn't seem to matter what you want, from photographic films to walking sticks, or from a velvet dress to the fittings of a handbag—apparently it can be created in a laboratory from cellulose, coal-air-and-water, glass and other strange materials.

The magicians of old worked their magic to overcome an enemy or awe the people. The modern magicians of chemistry make better use of old resources and give mankind a wider variety of products to enjoy.

BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT

A big chamber of commerce has just taken a poll of many hundred business executives, in which it asked whether they expected business to be better in the first quarter of 1940 than it was in the same period of 1939. More than four-fifths of them said yes. Only two percent thought their business would be worse. A small majority thought it would be the same as this year.

The optimism of the majority is echoed around the country. On the face of things it seems to be a fair guess. And such optimistic guesses help at least a little to realize themselves. The man or group or community that expects success has a better chance than the one that doesn't. This may not be an economic law, but it's a law of human nature.

TRANSATLANTIC MAIL

Half a million letters a week now cross the Atlantic Ocean by clipper plane. Pan-American Airways flies two round trips weekly between Lisbon and New York, via Bermuda and the Azores, and each clipper now carries 400 to 600 more pounds of mail than it did last August.

It may be that a great many more letters are being written on both sides of the Atlantic to relatives on the other side since war began in Europe. Or it may be that more people want letters to reach their destination sooner and so make use of the air service. Still others may consider the clipper planes safer from war hazards than boats. Perhaps much of the increase is Christmas mail.

An analysis of this flood of correspondence would be interesting. Historians in the future may find some of it useful.

REPAID LOANS

Students seem to be good risks. The University of Michigan has granted loans to 12,000 students since 1895. The total amount granted is more than a million and a half dollars.

All but eight-tenths of one per cent of that sum has been repaid. Half of the insignificant portion written off as uncollectible was left unpaid because of the death or total disability of the borrower.

Perhaps not all student loans everywhere show such a fine record of repayment, although it seems likely that losses are not high for any institution. Students who are eager for a college education and capable of profiting from it (and student loans as a rule are granted only to carefully selected young people) are likewise responsible and honest.

GAMBLING PROBLEM

A negro couple living in South Philadelphia's slums won a sweepstakes prize last April. They had been living, with their two children, on weekly relief checks of $11.40. Naturally, the $150,000 prize money enabled them to make sweeping changes in their manner of living.

They bought a home of their own and an automobile. Now they plan to build a few modern, low rent apartment houses for other members of their race.

Among their first acts was the prompt repayment of all the relief money they had received, more than $2,000.

It is an interesting story, but with moral and economic complications. There's the matter of the sweepstakes ticket. Many people who ordinarily see no harm in buying such chances say it is wrong for a family on relief to spend money so foolishly. The luck of these people will lead others to gamble. Will the net result be good or bad?

It would be easy to kill this boom, too, by charging more than the traffic would bear.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

MIGRAINE—ONE SIDED HEADACHE

When an invitation was extended by a large clinic to migraine sufferers to come to the clinic for investigation, over seven hundred applied for investigation and treatment. It is a common and distressing ailment.

The cause of migraine was not discovered but it was found that ergotamine tartrate gave relief in practically every case.

Dr. R. O. Halloran, Charleston, in the West Virginia Medical Journal, suggests that migraine is due to swelling of the pituitary gland lying in a little bony cavity on the floor of the skull. This little gland, the size of a pea, produces several juices, all of which have some effect upon the body processes. The swelling of this little gland presses against the veins in little caverns or sinuses adjoining it, resulting in congestion of the whole vein system of the skull.

Pressure on the little nerve endings in these sinuses produces the intense pain of migraine.

"It is suggested that the ergotamine tartrate (gynergen) decreases the amount of blood of the skull and brain, which in turn relieves the congestion and headache. The depression following migraine is thought to be due to the accumulation of waste products in the brain. Thus many mental states may be due to the accumulation of these waste products causing a lack of oxygen in the blood in the brain."

That this may be true would account for the success Dr. Walter Alvarez has reported with the use of oxygen in giving relief to sufferers with migraine. The oxygen purifies the blood much more rapidly than it could be purified by the simple act of breathing.

It would appear, therefore, that our research workers are learning more and more about migraine; that is, that it is due to a congestion of impure blood in the brain.

Thus overwork—mental and physical—worry, or other emotional disturbance, by keeping mind and body overactive, cause the accumulation of waste products which, in turn, cause the congestion and pain.

It is the belief of many physicians, including myself, that the tenseness of mind of these individuals interferes with the ability of the liver to filter out poisons from the blood, thus adding to the total amount of wastes in the blood.

Allergy

Sensitiveness to various foods and other substances is thought to be one of the causes of migraine. Allergy or sensitiveness is also the cause of many so-called head colds, of intestinal upsets, and the like. Send for this helpful booklet by Dr. Barton entitled "Allergy" (No. 106) which explains how such conditions are treated. Enclose ten cents with your request and send it to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station, O. New York, N. Y., mentioning the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Social Security

Editor's Note: Every worker who has a Social Security account should know how the recent Congressional changes in the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance provisions of the Social Security Act apply to him or her. For the benefit of readers of The Kingston Daily Freeman, the Social Security Board's field office manager for this area, Charles E. Barry, has prepared a series of brief articles, each explaining one point of the new provisions.

For calculating benefits provided under the new Federal old-age and survivors insurance system, a formula, based on the worker's average monthly wage, has been adopted.

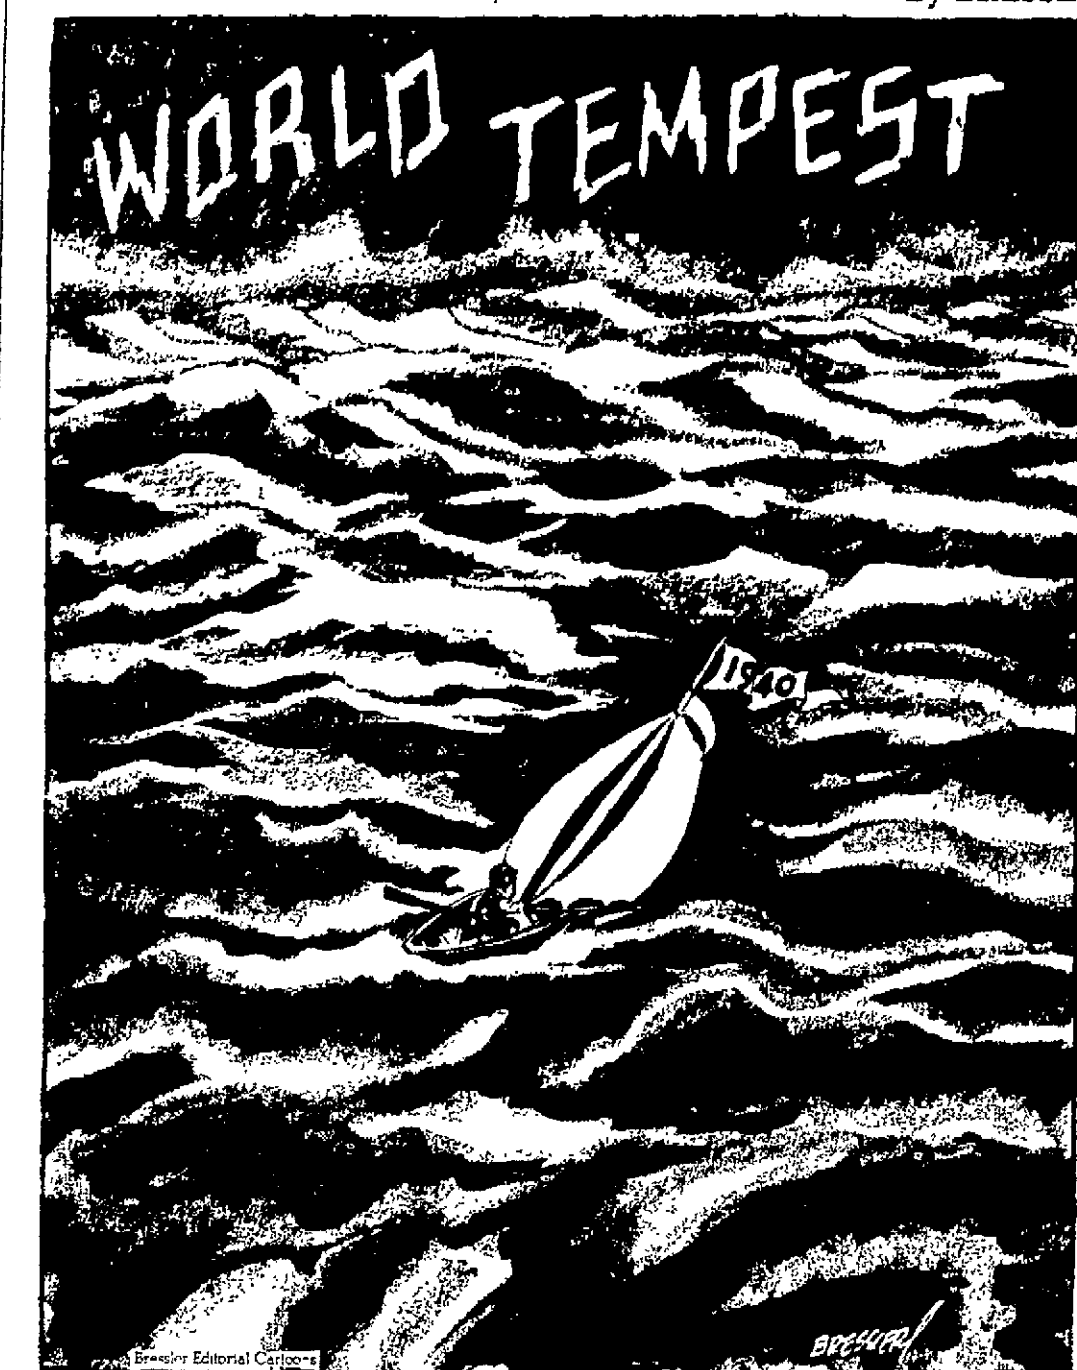

To find this "average wage," take a commercial or industrial worker's total wages, as reported by his employer, and divide this total by the number of months he could have been in employment since 1936. A monthly benefit is figured as follows: A basic amount equal to 40 per cent of the first $50 of his average monthly wage plus 10 per cent of the next $200 of average monthly wage; to this is added 1 per cent of the basic amount for each year in which the worker earns at least $200 in covered employment.

Example: Jim Blank, a factory worker, receives $100 a month in wages from 1936 until the end of 1939. At that time he reaches age 65 and decides to retire to get his monthly old-age insurance benefit, beginning next year. Jim's monthly benefit will amount to $35.75. Here is how it is figured: 40 per cent of the first $50 of his average monthly wages is $20. Add 10 per cent of the remaining $50, or $5. That makes $25. The law provides for an additional 1 per cent of this $25 for each year that he was covered (1937, 1938 and 1939). One per cent of $25 is 25c, and three times 25c is 75c. So Jim's monthly benefit will be $25.75.

Garner's Decision to Seek Nomination Creates Profound Impression in Democratic Circles in Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 19.—Vice President Garner's candidacy for the next Presidential nomination has created a profound impression in Democratic quarters here. The New Dealers don't like it and are beginning to say the President must run, if only to checkmate Mr. Garner, while the conservatives are saving it as a forthright announcement and means his candidacy will go on no matter what the New Dealers say.

The significance of the Garner statement is twofold. It is a sort of warning against a third term and it is the sign of a revival of the conservative-radical division in the coming session of Congress. The Garner candidacy will mean a lining up of various key members of the house as well as a fair-sized contingent of Democrats in the Senate. If the Vice President gets behind a particular piece of legislation or the amendment of some existing reform law, the chances of a majority coalition behind him will be enhanced.

So, entirely apart from the effect on the gathering of delegates, the Garner candidacy is a challenge. It is the most outspoken piece of advice ever in effect asking the President not to be a candidate for a third term. Mr. Garner has waited a respectable length of time—until virtually the beginning of 1940—before proclaiming formally his candidacy. If the President had intended to run, it will be contended, the word might have come long before this, so, from the standpoint of hostility to a third term, the Garner maneuvering themselves will insist their step takes for granted Mr. Roosevelt isn't planning to run.

Somewhat the same strategy was adopted the other day by Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado in behalf of the candidacy of Senator Burton Wheeler of Montana. He said in part:

"I do not agree that a man should be forced against his will to run for a third term.... It is silly to profess that there is an emergency in this country that demands the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt against his will. It is not fair to him nor to the country."

Thus the approach is one which assumes Mr. Roosevelt is disinclined to run and is not a party to the efforts of the third termers to draft him. Such an assumption permits the other candidates to press their case with the Democratic voters, and, unless Mr. Roosevelt himself lends some word of encouragement to the "draft movement," the managers, whether of a conservative like Garner or a liberal like Wheeler, will argue that Mr. Roosevelt will in the end be found supporting their respective candidates if either is nominated.

The fact that Secretary Ickes saw fit to speak disparagingly of the McNutt candidacy is not taken here to have any real political significance. Mr. Ickes is not a Democratic leader, but merely a part of the New Deal. He has no standing with the Democratic organizations throughout the country, having spent most of his life in the Republican party. The importance of a pronouncement by Mr. Ickes on a political candidate lies only in the remote possibility that the White House may have used him as spokesman, something that is being meticulously denied.

The New Dealers here as a group have little political strength.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Muddock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 121—Sarah E. Brown

The tale of the steamboat "Sarah E. Brown," known for a period in her existence as the "fish market boat," begins in 1860.

Travels through the Civil War and comes to the Rondout creek harbor, and finally ends as the wreckers tear apart the remains of the vessel which lost a battle with the ice in the creek and was wrecked beyond repair, in the year 1893.

The wooden hull of the "Sarah E. Brown" was built at Brooklyn in 1860. She was 92 feet long, breadth of beam 13 feet 8 inches, depth of hold five feet eight inches. Her gross tonnage was listed at 45, with a net tonnage of 22, and she was propelled by a vertical beam engine with a cylinder diameter of 24 inches with a six foot stroke.

As can be ascertained from the above dimensions, the "Sarah E. Brown" was a small sidewheel steamboat, which was built for towing service in and around New York harbor. There were many vessels similar to the "Sarah E. Brown" in use for the same purpose at that period in steamboat history. Shortly after the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861, the "Sarah E. Brown" was taken over by the war department and placed in service on the Potomac river, being used principally in the places where the river was too shallow for the larger vessels to navigate safely.

In 1865, at the close of the war, the "Sarah E. Brown" was brought north to the Brooklyn Navy Yard and tied up, and the following year she was sold to Thomas Cornell along with another sidewheel steamboat, the "Ceres." These two vessels, both painted black according to the practice of the federal government during the war, arrived at Rondout and were used for towing purposes in and around the Rondout creek.

Under the command of Captain Sandy Forsythe, the "Sarah E. Brown" with Peter Powell as chief engineer, became a familiar sight along the river in the vicinity of the mouth of the Rondout creek.

The year 1869 marks the event which brought the nickname of the "fish market boat" to the "Sarah E. Brown." A collision with an ice barge stove in the wheelhouse of the "Sarah E. Brown" carrying away much of the woodwork and leaving only the letters S. E. B. of her full name. Immediately some three letters could be the initial letters to the words "suckers," "eels" and "bullheads," and so the "Sarah E. Brown" came into the name of the "fish market boat."

During the winter of 1870 the "Sarah E. Brown" was rebuilt at Sleighsburg by Morgan Everson, and Major Cornell was asked what name he wished for the rebuilt craft. It is reported that Major Cornell in turn asked Captain Sandy Forsythe what name he thought would be appropriate, and the captain replied that the name "Sandy" would do. Thus the "Sarah E. Brown" became the towboat "Sandy."

The "Sandy" was in use around the Rondout harbor until the fall of 1892, and then it was an accident which occurred during the period when she was tied up for the winter, that brought the career of the "Sandy" to a close. On March 13, 1893, the keel in the upper section of the Rondout creek broke loose due to a spring freshet, and thousands of tons of ice rode the raging current down the creek. The onslaught of this mass swept many of the tied-up vessels from their moorings, and the side of the "Sandy" was crushed, causing the wrecked steamboat to sink. She was raised but was found to be in such condition that she was no longer of any use, and she was sold to Jacob Herold and broken up at Rondout.

A technical study of farm refrigerated storages is described in Cornell bulletin P-724. Single copies are available free to New York state residents and may be had from the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

Youth Gets 5 to 10 Years On Grand Larceny Charge

Luther Husted, formerly of Albany, was sentenced to a term of from five to ten years at Clinton State Prison, Dannemora, following report of the December grand jury yesterday afternoon before Supreme Court Justice Bergan.

Husted, who pleaded guilty to grand larceny, second degree, was a second offender and recently completed a term in the Pennsylvania Penitentiary for the theft of a car. He used the alias, Luther Houston, the records show. Thirteen sealed indictments handed down by the grand jury were referred to the County Court on motion of District Attorney Cleon B. Murray. Two of the sealed indictments were opened Monday afternoon and the defendants arraigned. All of the criminal matters were transferred to County Court except the murder, second degree, charge against Christopher C. Miller, Glasco negro, which was retained in Supreme Court pending further action.

Cook Assigned

Justice Bergan assigned Andrew J. Cook to consult with the negro who is charged with having shot Charles Davis, at Glasco on October 29, 1939, following a disagreement over payment of $150 debt.

Savio LaGuardia of Saugerties, charged with having flourished a gun at a Saugerties diner on November 10, 1939, was arraigned on a charge of violation of Section 1897, Sub-division 4, that of possession of an unlicensed gun. He had been under bail and on his plea of not guilty, entered by Joseph Campbell, he was released on $250 bail.

There was but one dismissal, that of the charge against Andrew O'Brien.

Husted Explains

Before sentence was imposed, Husted said he was a baker and lost his job and when he became unemployed he took to drink. It was while drunk that he took cars. He admitted having taken five cars but said the first one he took when he was not under the influence of liquor but took it from a cousin. He said when he was first charged with larceny he was not yet 16 years old but had been indicted.

Mr. Murray then asked the court for a chance to check his records, stating that he had been connected with the district attorney's office for many years and had never indicted any youth under 16 years of age, but had such matters referred to children's court. His records showed that May 2, 1932, when Husted was arrested by the police, he had given his age as 16. Mr. Murray said that it was on the statement of the lad as to his age that action had been taken and being 16 the case went to the grand jury for action.

Husted said he had decided not to drink any more and told the court he never had disposed of the cars he took.

"Driving while drunk is almost as serious an offense as taking the cars," said Justice Bergan when Husted said he never took cars unless he had been drinking.

Husted admitted that in 1936 he was convicted of larceny of an automobile in Pennsylvania and had been given a term of which he served two years. He also said he had been given a suspended sentence in 1932 when arrested and indicted in Ulster county on a charge of theft of a car. It was at that time, he said, he was 15 years old although he told police he was 16. Husted was charged now with taking the car of Warren H. Swarthout and abandoning it at the Schoenag roller rink near Saugerties.

Pleads Guilty

Charles J. Locke pleaded guilty to unlawful entry to the Freer grill on Broadway and taking of a small sum of money.

Locke said he had lost his job and had gone to the Freer place for a drink. While there he had seen money placed in some hiding place and after the place closed he went back, entered through a window and took it. When faced next day with the charge he said he admitted it. It was his first offense and Justice Bergan advised him to get a job and earn the money he needed. The theft took place on October 25, last. A year in jail was imposed and Locke was given a suspension of the jail sentence and told to continue to report to Probation Officer Service.

The date and place are undecided. Mrs. Eber Coy of Ardonia was named chairman of arrangements, and will announce the date of the party later. The project of "Care of Rayons" was talked on and a dress was lauded in the demonstration. This project was con-

Stone Ridge Farmer Tells Of Father Divine's Purchase

Several Million Dollars
Los Angeles, Dec. 19 (AP)—The Times, quoting a "reputable source," says the estate of Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., who died a week ago, is "several million dollars" but "much less" than his friends, associates and most people believe. The newspaper's informant said his widow, the former Lady Sylvia Ashley, and her son, Douglas, Jr., would be principal beneficiaries but would not guess whether Mary Pickford, Fairbanks' former wife, had been named. Opening of the will is scheduled December 26 at the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, executor.

Blame-Enforcement
Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today blamed "lack of proper enforcement of operating rules" for a rear-end collision between two passenger trains on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad at Avery, Idaho, last September 15. The Milwaukee's crack Olympian hit the rear end of passenger extra 250. A total of 189 persons, including 161 passengers, were injured in the accident.

Naval Officials Say Spee's Fate Deliberate Plot

spirit that a housewife uses cheese to bait a mouse trap.

Ship Still Smoulders
Oil and other inflammables on the Admiral Graf Spee continued to smoulder today. Naval men said they probably would burn 45 hours more. Then Uruguayan and Argentine authorities must decide what to do with the hulk.

The Uruguayan foreign ministry said there was no "possible" justification for the Germans blowing up their ship, rather than go out to face the waiting British warships.

Foreign Minister Alberto Guani said Uruguay had acted at every step in conformity with the Hague convention (concerning belligerent warships).

He said Captain Langsdorff had requested a 15-day stay to make repairs, but that the Uruguayan commission which surveyed the ship's damages recommended the 72-hour limit which was set.

It was said the government might issue a "white paper" detailing its actions and answering the German charges.

Foreign naval attaches said the Admiral Graf Spee had suffered severe damages to its fighting ability, or it would not have fled the smaller British ships.

Called Chameleon
Buenos Aires, Dec. 19 (AP)—The Admiral Graf Spee today a smouldering hulk in the muddy River Plate estuary, was described by its commander as a chameleon of the seas, which used a fake smokestack and other "trappings" during its raiding career.

The false stack and some superstructure changes were employed to make the Admiral Graf Spee resemble, at a distance, the British battle cruiser Renown, said Capt. Hans Langsdorff.

The Renown is a 32,000-ton ship, while the Admiral Graf Spee was only 10,000.

"At that, maybe the joke was on us," said Langsdorff. "Perhaps we fooled nobody."

In roving both the South and North Atlantic and in a sally into the Indian Ocean, the Admiral Graf Spee also used lesser disguises to resemble the other pocket battleships, the Deutschland and Admiral Scheer.

"One time we changed our name and actually passed for the Admiral Scheer," said the slim, good-natured commander.

Retreat Reported
Copenhagen, Dec. 19 (AP)—A motorized Soviet Russian army rolled south along Finland's arctic highway. It was reported today, on the heels of retreating Finnish forces.

Advices reaching Copenhagen yesterday said the Finns lost a battle 53 miles southwest of the Arctic port, Petsamo, on the Pasvik river separating northernmost Finland from a narrow neck of Norwegian territory.

An official Moscow report that Pitkanen himself had been captured had not been confirmed by Finnish sources, but observers at the Norwegian border points said the Finns were burning buildings, apparently in preparation for abandoning the town.

The Kirkenes correspondent of the newspaper Politiken said the Russian vanguard was nearing Grensefors—southernmost border station in South Varanger—and was likely to pass that point before night.

This would place Russian troops for more than 100 miles along Norway's northernmost frontier.

More Serious Threat
A more serious threat to the Finns was seen in an unconfirmed report in Stockholm that the Red army had broken through the Kuopio front in central Finland and reached Kemijarvi, which is linked by rail to Tornio on the Gulf of Bothnia.

Should the Russian army reach Rovaniemi, 50 miles to the east where highways and connecting railways run to the Swedish border, Helsinki's land communications with Sweden would be cut off.

Earlier reports from the north-eastern front said Russian troops were poorly trained, and their equipment inadequate.

Advices today, however, stressed that modern equipment was being used by seasoned troops.

Some reports from Helsinki said the Russians had thrown a half-million men into the invasion, with 200,000 of these added in the last few days.

Russian casualties were estimated unofficially at more than 30,000 men and 200 tanks.

Nearly 400,000 Finns were reported mobilized to meet the invaders.

Secretary Wallace's proposition to again establish a processing tax program to finance AAA payments to farmers is said to be not meeting with too much approval in Washington official quarters.

Reports are that the President's fiscal and monetary committee, headed by Secretary Morgenthau, does not take kindly to Wallace's latest scheme.

The Wage-Hour Administration has established a 40-cent an hour minimum wage in the millinery industry. It becomes effective January 15 and will benefit about 3,500 of the country's 25,000 workers in the industry.

In indictments returned by a federal grand jury investigating the northern California building industry, at San Francisco, two unions, 36 individuals and 10 companies were charged with conspiracy to violate the anti-trust laws.

The New York State Public Service Commission has challenged the Federal Power Commission's authority over Central New York Power, which owns Niagara Hudson Power, as being "not wise or necessary." Act is seen as a move to block extension of federal control of intrastate utilities.

The House committee investigating the NLRB was told yesterday that a CIO union in Cincinnati refused to drop a case before the NLRB because the union was under "obligation to communists." The statement was made in a telegram dated December 6, 1937 and which a NLRB regional director identified as having been sent by himself.

Steel Operations Start at Almost 90 Per Cent Total

Steel operations started this week at 90 per cent of capacity, a drop of 12 points from the previous week and a still further drop from the rate of 93.9 a month ago. The Federal Reserve Board noted continuation of a high level of industrial activity during the first part of December, however, and in the opinion of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics there is likely to be continued high output for particular industries in the early part of next year, although the general level may not be maintained and there is no evidence of a general depression.

In Pennsylvania Chairman Fuller of the state job mobilization committee expects to see business five to ten per cent better next year than it was in 1939.

It is stated that 44 Brewster planes originally ordered by the U. S. Navy will be sold to Finland, instead; also that Brewster has received an order from Belgium for 40 fighting planes to cost $2,700,000.

In the markets securities continued in the doldrums and with volume at 720,000 shares all classes showed slight advance losses five to ten per cent. The other hand commodities forged ahead with big gains, making five such advances in the last six trading days and bringing the Dow-Jones commodity index up to 64.67, highest point it has reached since August 1937, when it went to 66.75.

On the New York Stock Exchange industrial stocks, measured in the Dow-Jones averages, lost 14 points, to 149.22; rails dropped 25 points, to 31.53 and utilities got nowhere, remaining unchanged at 24.86. Brokers, regarded as saying that outside interest in stocks is small at the present time and that it is a long time since the market has continued to show such small changes from day to day over such a long period.

Grains and silk led the rise that sent the commodity index up nearly a point for the day. Wheat futures made sensational gains, closing up 2½ to 4½ cents a bushel. Corn advanced 1½ to 2½ cents, wheat going to $1.11½ a bushel. Cotton was erratic, closing eight points lower to two higher. Spot silk sold $42.7, a gain of 30½ cents.

Secretary Wallace's proposition to again establish a processing tax program to finance AAA payments to farmers is said to be not meeting with too much approval in Washington official quarters.

Only then did he learn that Private Kenneth C. Seaman had jumped with the rest but died because his parachute failed to open.

Funeral services on Wednesday at 2 p. m., in the H. S. Tutill Funeral Home will be conducted by the Rev. A. Van De Beek Vos. Burial will be in Christ Episcopal cemetery, Marlborough.

This morning at 10 o'clock a solemn high Mass of requiem was offered at St. Joseph's Church for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Mary Ann Duffy by the Rev. John D. Simmons. Assisting as deacon was the Rev. John P. McCaffrey and as sub-deacon was the Rev. Edmund Burke. The church was filled with her many relatives, friends and neighbors who came to pay their last respects. The children's choir sang the responses during the Mass and at the offertory William Raible, soloist, sang Ave Maria and at the conclusion he also sang Ave Verum. Many beautiful floral pieces and numerous Mass cards were sent to the home. The Rev. Edmund Burke visited the home last evening at 8 o'clock and led the assembled relatives and friends in the recitation of the Holy Rosary for the repose of her soul. The casket, bearers were Walter Kelly, Martin Cashin, Matthew Jordan, John T. Cahill, Joseph Nash and John Whalen. The burial took place in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery, where the Rev. Father McCaffrey gave the final absolution at the grave.

Figure 1 is a line graph with the x-axis labeled 'Number of days of exposure to a 12-hour shift' and the y-axis labeled 'Number of days of exposure to a 12-hour shift'. The x-axis ranges from 0 to 10, and the y-axis ranges from 0 to 10. A curve starts at the origin (0,0) and rises steeply, then gradually levels off, approaching a value of 8 on the y-axis as the x-value increases towards 10.

Herzog's Guidepost

To better living

BECAUSE you're much on your mind, lots to do, everything to remember—and the time just flying—we've typed out a little memorandum. Check the items that interest you:

MEMO

Spend an evening this week at Herzog's.

Go down to the basement and see that Sunbeam Mixer. No harm in looking at it. In fact, ask all the questions you can think of. Ask to see what it does, and just how it works. (Take your time, think it over—but it would make a knock-out Christmas present, wouldn't it?)

On first floor explain to one of the men that you're thinking you'd sort of like to fix up a tool chest for "the boy," with the kind of tools that he really can do something with. Tell him frankly what you have in mind, and he'll help you get just what you want. (Whether you pick out one good tool or a whole kit-ful, you'll be doing right by your son, and won't be the proud dad!)

Walk upstairs to second floor and have a look at that Zenith radio-phonograph. Make the first Herzog employee you see play a record for you. Ask about the dollar-a-week plan for owning a radio-phonograph. (That's the way the folk are getting theirs—so why not you? And are they getting them? This year's phonograph record sales in the country are 50 per cent above last year's, and last year's were three times 1933's.)

If you are a man, and your wife has a practical turn of mind, and she's ready to get some new things, go and get something foolish, the sensible thing for you to do is to come in and ask for Miss Leonard or Mr. Perryman who will gladly advise you on appropriate new conveniences for the home and kitchen.

Before you leave the store be sure you have your Christmas tree lighting sets (first floor), wrapping tissues, gift tags, tags, string and ribbons (basement).

"Family Week"

This is the week the whole family comes to Herzog's.

Husbands and wives get a chance to study the advantages of the Easy Washer, or the Magic Chef range, together with the Brothers and sisters find Herzog's a good place to pick out presents for each other. These are some of the things they choose:

Skiing and skating equipment.

School kits with plenty of room for books, a compartment containing a half-pint thermos bottle, and an outside pocket for pencils. 35 cents.

Lunch boxes in gay colors, with thermos bottle, $1.50. Register banks, Chase Chromium, that "save" you to twenty dollars in silver, 50 cents and $1.00.

Flashlights and lanterns. Nat set with cracker, 6 picks, and hot water bottle, 20c. Corn poppers. Electric model, $1.00. Other types from 20c.

Looking for something with a touch of quaintness—at no great expense?

It's a cookie jar.

Decorated in the bold beautiful colors of any New York City design, if you prefer. From $1.10, or you may select a set of decorated canisters, or a salt and pepper set, or a jardiniere, or many other similar inexpensive things.

"For Neatness' Sake"

Must your girl have the virtue of daily neatness?

Make it a Pearl-wick laundry hamper.

Those women with a home and family to look after always mean to get one of the sturdy, attractive, so one for Christmas is a thrilling surprise! Choice of many colors at $1.00.

"Most Popular"

The popular hot biscuit server in silver aluminum which in a few minutes freshens biscuits, crackers, fritters, peanuts, candies, cereals, and keeps little cakes and toast hot, thus far the most popular gift-giver. No. 1. Everyone wants one! Price, $1.95.

Now you do know someone who actually has one of these, and the hot biscuit server will be a unanimous success.

"Parties and Otherwise"

Decided to make it a party? Then do see our series of coffee-makers.

They range from small percolators to coffee makers, and from the original 10-cup size, $1.00, to the 40-cup size, $1.95, to the 60-cup size, $2.50, to the 80-cup size, $3.50. It has two boats, one for making the coffee, the other for keeping it piping hot for hours. Designed like a large ball mounted on a fluted column. See it!

"The Man Problem"

How much do you want to spend on a man?

There is a good-looking smoking stand by Chase, in chromium and black, guaranteed stainproof, at $3.50. There is the "Lazy Boy" smoke stand, designed with every convenience a smoker can ask, at $12.50. There are a number of other good-looking, useful things, from $1.00 to $10.00.

"Pride-of-the-Home"

Want it to be something fine for the home, of which the whole family may be proud?

The new flexible metal folding screen for the fireplace.

Make a mesh-like metal. It hangs as soft as drapery from its brass frame and pushes aside on curtain rings when you wish to put wood on the fire—eliminating the nuisance of moving the screen.

Something smart, modern, decorative and inexpensive?

The wall brackets by Chase, with single and double flower holders, and polished metal reflector to mirror them, $1.00 and $1.50. Or unique book-ends from $1.50. Or unusual occasional lamps from $2.50.

Double-check the above MEMO. SPEND SOME EVENING THIS WEEK AT HERZOG'S, 332 Wall St., Kingston.

Musical Program Given at Sorosis

Sorosis met Monday at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham on Janet street for a special musical program in charge of Miss Helen Turner. The program was based on the influence of three women on American music.

Mrs. Edward MacDowell, inspirer of music, was discussed by Miss Turner. Sidney Homer's book, "My Wife and I," which stressed Madame Louise Homer's contribution as an interpreter of music, was reviewed by Mrs. Henry Millonig, Jr., and Mrs. Graham sketched the life of Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, composer.

The musical program which illustrated the subject was presented as each topic was developed and was given in two parts. Part I consisted of the playing of MacDowell's "Deserted Farm" and "Told at Sunset" played by Mrs. Raymond H. Rignall and "A Song" played by Mrs. Henry Millonig, and "Indian Piper" by Bower, played by Miss Helen Turner.

The second part of the program consisted of vocal selections, "Requiem" and "Sheep and Lambs" by Homer, sung by Mrs. Arthur Laidlaw, "Have Lost My Eurydice" by Gluck, sung by Mrs. William J. McVey and "All Love But a Day" by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, sung by a quartet consisting of Miss Turner, Mrs. Laidlaw, Mrs. Rignall and Mrs. McVey.

Mrs. Rignall accompanied Mrs. Laidlaw's solo, Miss Wilma McVey accompanied Mrs. McVey and Miss Lucinda Merritt accompanied the quartet.

Guests of the members were present at the meeting. Following the program a social hour was enjoyed.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.

"Warning" a Rented House

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to give a housewarming party when going to housekeeping in a rented place? Some one has told me that this party is given only so friends can go through a new house.

Answer: There is no reason why people who are renting shouldn't give a party of this kind. "Housewarming" really means the first party given—wherever you have newly gone to live. Of course, if you have rented a furnished house or apartment with none of your own things in it, your housewarming party would put the emphasis on "warming" instead of on "house." It would mean your first gesture of hospitality and not the first showing of your new house.

Wedding Rings for Men

Dear Mrs. Post: What kind of rings do men wear for their wedding rings? My fiancé says he wouldn't mind having a ring if it didn't have to be one of the plain gold bands, which he has always thought unbecoming to most men. Answer: Many men have been married with a gold seal ring. However, it is entirely proper that a man be married with whatever kind of ring he prefers. If he cares for smartness, he wears it on his little finger.

Husband (or Wife) Accept Without Other?

Dear Mrs. Post: I am invited with my husband to the wedding and reception of people who are strangers here and whom we don't know very well. I can't go, but my husband feels that it would at least be courteous if he went. I'm not sure whether it would be proper for him to go without me since we were invited together, and I wouldn't know how to accept for one and decline for the other. Will you please answer these points.

Answer: If there is a chance that you might be able to go with your husband at the last minute, you write, "Mr. and Mrs. John Blank accept, etc." If you know you cannot go, you may accept for him and send regrets for yourself (and explain reason) this way: Mr. John Blank accepts with pleasure but

Only One Protest At Public Hearing

At the public hearing held by the Common Council Monday evening but one protest was received from a property owner, who had been billed by the Board of Public Works for work in removing snow from the sidewalk in front of his property.

The protest was registered by Dr. E. E. Henry, who sent in a communication, as he was out of town and unable to attend the hearing. He wrote that he spent the winter out of the city, but had always engaged a man to keep the walks clean and saw no reason for the city cleaning the sidewalk.

Superintendent Ernest Steuding of the Board of Public Works, who was present, stated that the work had been cleaned by his men after the police department had notified his office of the condition of the sidewalk.

The council referred the communication to the board.

The hearing was held for the purpose of affording property owners an opportunity to state why certain charges made for snow removal, installation of sewer laterals, and repairs to sidewalks and curbs, should not be included in their 1940 tax bills.

City Clerk E. J. Dempsey informed the council that all of the property owners, who had been delinquent in the payment of the charges had been notified of the hearing.

The aldermen unanimously voted to have the charges included in next year's tax bills.

Byrd Explorers Will 'Lose' December 25

Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his South Polar explorers face the possibility of having no Christmas Day this year.

A message from the flagship, the North Star, which gave her position as latitude 77°20' south and longitude 143°17' west, said that if the vessel held her course and speed she would cross the international date line on December 24.

When a ship crosses the line going west it "loses" a day. Thus if the line should be crossed on December 24, all of December 25 would be skipped.

"One thing is certain, however," Admiral Byrd reported, "Christmas packages will come out of the hold just the same, and there will be turkey and fixings on the table regardless of the date."

By the decree the plaintiff may resume her maiden name, Georgianna McIntyre, and is awarded custody of the children. The plaintiff is granted $9 a week for support of the children.

Luxury Barracks Astonish Canadian Troops in Britain

Somewhere in Great Britain, Dec. 19 (AP)—Canadian doughboys awoke in steam-heated "luxury" barracks today wondering whether this is a "lace curtain" war.

The first contingent to arrive in Great Britain for a period of intensive training before leaving for the western front, the astonished troops faced their first workout today.

After debarking Sunday and Monday from liners in which many had private baths in their "state-rooms," the troops found their quarters in this sleepy little town equipped with: Steam radiators, hot and cold running water, showers and bath tubs, and even receptacles for old razor blades.

They slept on spring beds, instead of the traditional bunks, equipped with pillows, mattresses and three blankets.

"Gee, it's swell," grinned a young private.

Shopkeepers of the village were bewildered as the Canadians proclaimed "take over" the town on their first leave. Their dollar bills, nickels and quarters troubled the counter men as they bought knick-knacks and bric-a-brac.

They had arrived almost unnoticed. Citizens failed to see identifying shoulder tabs and cap badges, and cast only a casual glance at the troops as they stepped from their train.

Major Gen. Andrew G. L. McNaughton, World War veteran, was in command of the active service force which landed in secrecy at an undisclosed port.

They were the first combat troops to arrive since the war started.

Shouts of "Where-the-hell-is-Hitler?" and strains of "Roll Out the Barrel" pierced the air as they stepped down the gangplank.

The fanfare of a mystery convoy and warplanes overhead soon brought hundreds of curious to the docks.

"Hello, Canada," and "Welcome, boys," were shouted from the crowd as the cheering, singing throng disembarked.

The troops included a battalion of infantry from the maritime provinces and a hospital corps from British Columbia.

General McNaughton said there were "a hundred or so Americans" in the contingent. Officials at Ottawa, Canada, said the "Americans" were naturalized citizens who had lived in the United States.

Asked why he had joined the Canadian army, one man from Chicago replied:

"Just for the hell of it."

Holy Name Plans For Annual Event

At a recent meeting of St. Mary's Holy Name Society it was decided that the annual communion breakfast would be held on Sunday, January 14. It was also announced that arrangements are under way to have the address following the breakfast, broadcast by Kingston's new radio station, WKNY.

The celebration of the feast of the Holy Name has been changed for this occasion to the second Sunday of the month, which is the regular communion Sunday for the Holy Name Society throughout the country. St. Mary's men will join in the great Holy Name demonstration of loyalty to the Holy Father on that day. The national spiritual director has called upon every Holy Name man in the United States to receive Holy communion on Sunday, January 14. These communions will be offered for the intention of Pope Pius XII, which is for peace in the world.

A varied program is being prepared for the communion and breakfast of St. Mary's Society, which this year will be in the nature of a father and son event. Prominent speakers, both clerical and lay, will be present. There will also be a musical program.

Engelberg Murder Suspect Is Detained By Toronto Police

afterward announced its belief that the case had no international angles and evinced no further interest.

Police quickly concluded that the motive was not robbery, and directed their inquiries into Dr. Engelberg's private life. They questioned a number of men who had visited the secretary, and then started a search for Haas.

Ryan said today that Haas, in describing the crime, insisted he killed Engelberg because the secretary's behavior became offensive.

In Toronto the police described Haas as an amateur boxer from Winnipeg and gave his age as 26.

Toronto authorities said the prisoner's real name was Ernest Kehler. They said New York detectives arrived in the city last night with a warrant for his arrest.

The prisoner told Toronto police he met Dr. Engelberg late in September at a Jamaica, Long Island, boxing match. The secretary bought him food and the friendship continued for several weeks.

Captain Bais said Haas, or Kehler, told him he struck Engelberg six or seven times with a heavy instrument; then went for a walk, took the subway to Times Square and caught a bus for Scranton, Pa.

There he begged enough money to pay his fare to Buffalo. In Buffalo and in Niagara Falls, N. Y., he begged more money and so arrived at Toronto last night. He was arrested at the bus station.

Robert Lynch of 30 Hamilton street, escaped injury but his car was wrecked when he failed to make a turn on Hurley avenue at the Beatty Farm, shortly after 6 o'clock Monday evening.

According to the police report Mr. Lynch was not injured.

Contractors Find Tool Shed 'Gone With the Wind'

Lost, strayed or stolen—One tool shed, size 8 by 10 feet, 82 heavy it requires the services of four men to lift and carry, from Stephen street some time during the night.

The missing building was reported to the police department this morning by Peter Schline of the building contracting firm of Slover, Jansen & Schline.

Mr. Schline said that the tool shed was found missing this morning when the carpenters reported for work on the new house they plan to construct on Stephen street, near the top of the hill.

He was of the impression that a truck must have been used to carry the tool shed away from the spot, as it was too heavy to be carried for any great distance.

Jersey Reds Will Play Here on Christmas Night Against Troy

Haver Announces Kingston Gets the Union City Club

Gashouse Gang as Colonials and Troy-Celtics Looks Like Real Cage Natural

The Jersey Reds will be at the auditorium Christmas night to represent Kingston against the Troy Haymakers. Attorney N. L. Van Haver announced today.

Haver said he had a long conversation with Vic Travalone of Union City yesterday and that the manager of the Reds informed him the American League meeting Sunday was in favor of transferring the Gashouse Gang to replace the Celtics.

For the Christmas game, all of the Reds will be here—Moe Spahn, Paulie Adamo, Ace Goldstein, Hagen Anderson, Al Benson, Tommy O'Brien and Danny Kaplowitz.

Travalone is interested in three other players to bolster his club, Fitz Fitzpatrick, who was with the Celtics, Moe Frankel and Si Boardman, of the old Troy club.

"This transfer of the Reds is not for one night (Christmas) but for the remainder of the season," Haver said. New Year's night, the New York Jewels will be the attraction, according to present arrangements.

The Christmas night game between the New Kingston Reds and Barney Sedran's Celtic-Troy combination is regarded as one of the greatest basketball "natural" ever booked for the auditorium. A capacity crowd is expected.

That Celtic-Troy merger was approved at the American League meeting Sunday, and the schedule was revamped to take care of Washington's withdrawal. At the session, announcement was made that John "Tony" Russell had been engaged as manager and coach of Wilkes-Barre.

Nothing definite was done on the standing of the clubs, but it is considered likely that clubs shifted around will keep the percentage that they made playing under their own franchises.

Under The Potted Palms Baseball's Big Deals Brew

Baseball's union derby, a marathon contest around the potted palms of the hotel lobbies, recently wound up in Cincinnati at the major leagues' winter meeting. This endurance contest finds every baseball manager trying to out-talk the others. As the long hours pass these peerless pilots pleading, arguing, cajoling, shift from one foot to the other until their dogs bark loudly. But they keep on gabbing, attempting to outsmart the other fellow. They try to trade a broken-down outfielder with fallen arches for a bright shortstop prospect and make the other guy think he is getting the better of the deal.

With Short and Ferguson running wild, the Port Eweners made it hot for the Irish, who had to depend on Albany and Krum for 19 of their points as Tommy Weems, the club's leading scorer, was held down to three markers.

Canfield and Rhymer collaborated for 20 of the Comforters' points in its victory over the Clintons. H. Baltz and Meyers accounted for 10 and nine markers respectively for the Methodists. There are no games next Monday, Christmas, or the following week, New Year's Day, but on January 8 the three contests scheduled are: St. Paul vs. Port Ewen, 7. First Dutch vs. Comforters, 8. Redeemer vs. St. Mary's, 9.

Since the depression, work for persons trained in foods and management has opened with welfare agencies and with utility companies. The government takes many home economics graduates: Research workers, dietitians, and women trained in nutrition and management. More than two thousand women are now with the Resettlement Administration at work which combines that of household management and social service.

WHAT'S IN THAT BIG CUP, SAM?
"Slammin' Sam" Sneed, the West Virginia slugging golfer, reaches 'way into that big silver cup that identifies him as winner of the Miami open tourney—and pulls out his first prize check for $2,500. He tied the course record of 61 to bring home the bacon. His admiring friend is Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Boston, last year's winner and second prize winner this year.

Best Claybuster Lives in Jersey

Out of the seldom-publicized professional ranks comes this year's highest-average trapshooter, a survey of 1939 records at Amateur Trapshooting Association headquarters here showed today.

King of claybusters is Fred Tomlin, a Glassboro, N. J., veteran who is so proficient at splintering the elusive flying saucers that long ago he acquired the nickname, "Splinters."

"Splinters" Tomlin was just short of absolute perfection this year, firing at 2450 registered "birds," splintering 2433, for an amazing percentage of .9930, an all-time world's record for professionals. Bringing it down to more cryptic figures, it means that Tomlin, the old eagle-eye, drew a bead on 2450 birds and missed only 17.

Shooting at that speed as an amateur would have netted Tomlin a sweet income for the year, except for the strange trapshoot rule that says amateurs may shoot for money, but that professionals, who represent the gun companies, may compete only for trophies.

Tomlin's major honors of the year, in addition to the high-average crown, included the world's professional championship. And in amassing an average of .9930, he broke his previous all-time record, .9922. The world's title came his way, though he had a single miss, winning that event during the Grand American tournament here in August, with 99 out of 100.

It is no new achievement for the Glassboro gunner to win high-average honors. Six times before this distinction came his way. He started attracting attention in 1925, when his record of .9854 was the best of the year. He repeated in 1930 with .9787; in '31 with .9885; in '33 with .9865; in '36 with .9791; in '36 with .9805, and last year with .9922.

Rush Razez, Denver veteran, and the late Earle Donahue of Minneapolis, won the high-average three different times but no other pro has ever approached Tomlin's mark. Razez, now past 60, was high on the rolls this year, incidentally, with .9860 on 1000 targets.

Tomlin has also won more world's pro championships at the Grand American than any other person, his 1939 crown being his fourth to break a three-way tie with Donahue and Homer Clark, Alton, Ill.

K.H.S. Cagers at Saugerties In Exhibition Game Tonight

Kerr Assembles Charity Players

Chicago, Dec. 19 (AP)—More than $500,000 for charity—that's the total "take" for crippled children produced in the last 14 years by the East-West all-star football games in San Francisco.

Last year the game netted $60,000 for charity—the West winning the game, 13 to 0, on Bill Patterson's fine passing. In the 14 past games the West has won eight, lost five and tied one.

Little Andy Kerr, Colgate's head coach, is directing the Eastern squad for the 13th year. He assembled his players at Northwestern University yesterday for their first workout. Last night the 22 players and Kerr and his staff departed for San Francisco. En route they will stop at Grand Island, Neb., and Ogden, Utah, for limbering up exercises.

The only All-America on the squad is Bill Kerr of Newburgh, Notre Dame end.

Rose Bowl Tickets Are Snapped Up

Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 19 (AP)—Fifteen thousand tickets to the Tennessee-Southern California battle in the Rose Bowl were held out to a hungry public today, and promptly snapped up.

The block was offered according to Tournament of Roses-Pacific Coast Conference custom as an appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Fan and the Little Fans, who can't obtain tickets to this post season grid classic through channels open to alumni and Rose Bowl patron groups.

The game figures to draw something like $300,000 in gate receipts.

With DUSO League basketball on the shelf until some time in January, the Kingston High School basketballers make their first non-league appearance this evening in Saugerties. Despite their previous spotty showings the Kiamen are favored to whip the Cahillmen. Game time is 8:15.

In meeting Saugerties tonight the Kiamen have another chance to brush up for the Newburgh invasion on January 5 at the auditorium. The usually fast passing, maneuvering team of former years is decidedly missing. There has been a small number of slightly brilliant performances but on the whole the Kiamen of 1939-40 will have a lot of tough sledding unless a sharp upturn is noticed, say the experts.

Another important phase in the "general cleaning up" is foul shooting. Against Port last Thursday Kingston missed exactly 13 opportunities from the short stripe—13 points which might have been very important if Port had offered better shooting.

Saugerties with a few regulars returning may offer a surprise for Kingston tonight. Starting line-ups:

RF—Flowers Van Ethen
C—Lindhurst Kenny

Driver Arrested After Collision

Phillip Liepshutz of Hudson was arrested Monday evening on a charge of operating a truck without having his operator's or chauffeur's license with him. The arrest followed a collision between the truck he was driving and the automobile driven by Joseph Conroy of 82 Hoffman street.

The two machines collided at the intersection of Chambers and Meadow street. While both machines were damaged, no one was reported injured.

This morning in police court Liepshutz produced his chauffeur's license and was discharged by Judge Raymond Mino with the warning to be sure and carry it with him in the future.

Firemen Called To Creek Locks

3 o'clock a call was sent to the Kingston department for aid. There was some damage to the attic by smoke and water and a large hole was burned in the roof. Saturday afternoon Kingston firemen were summoned to Bloomington to aid at the fire which destroyed the Bloomington Reformed Church parsonage.

Greenwich Skeptical

Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 19 (AP)—Don't blame the Greenwich juvenile element if it's a little skeptical about this Santa Claus business. The genial gentleman from the North Pole, chief guest at a Chamber of Commerce Christmas party, undertook to show several hundred children "how Santa does his own cooking." A match landed in a pile of excelsior, flames spread to "Santa's" whiskers and they burned off—revealing Albert Ben-nison, a professional Kris Kringle.
